Birth Photography

I've heard many mothers express regret over not having many (or good) pictures to remember their birth process or their first moments as a new family. Your support team will be busy taking care of you, and may not think to grab a camera. Hospital lighting tends to be atrocious, and most basic cameras can't handle the low lighting conditions. If you want high quality photos of your labor and birth, you will need a professional who is dedicated to capturing the very best images of you without being distracted by other personal/family needs. That's where I come in! I will be like a fly on the wall during your labor and birth process, capturing the details you wouldn't see otherwise and making sure that you have lots of memories from this special time for your family! Birth photography requires a big commitment from your photographer, from being on call to spending hours with you at the hospital. Pricing begins at $599 for clients also investing in any Baby Series package above, and at $699 for clients who wish to invest in Birth Photography alone. All birth packages include your images on a flash drive with personal printing rights up to 8x10.

Fresh 48 Session (aka "Welcome to the World" Hospital Mini Session)

Maybe you'd love birth photography but finances, medical concerns or the very concept of a photographic depiction of your birth puts you off. Maybe you just want to clean up a bit, rest, eat a good meal and get dressed before having a photographer present! The Fresh 48 Session is for you. I'll help you capture those precious first few hours of your baby's entrance to the world, your first family photographs. Fresh 48 can include baby meeting family and friends as well. While I won't be on call 24/7 as I would with a Birth Journey package, I do pre-book Fresh 48 sessions so that I am available within the first two days after birth, during daytime hours, as soon as you call! Sessions are $250 ($200 for Baby Series Clients) and include approximately an hour of photography and your images delivered with printing rights up to 8x10 via Digital Download (DropBox).
